The details of the terrible wreck on the Springfield branch of the L. & N. at Shelbyville were meagre yesterday afternoon, but enough was known to make it the most disastrous wreck in Kentucky for many years. The people killed were mostly residents of Nelson and Washington counties returning from Louisville to their homes.

At Atlanta Thursday night, Evangelist Billy Sunday had a fight with a pro-German on the platform, following his denunciation of Turkish atrocities. The man who gave the name of W. H. Beuterbaugh approached him from the rear of the platform and struck the evangelist before others could interfere. Sunday wheeled and punched him on the jaw and Beuterbaugh was pulled away and put under arrest. Sunday then resumed his sermon.

PRETTY GIRLS ARE HELPING. In Red Cross Campaign for Two Days

The working forces of the Red Cross were augmented yesterday by the addition of about thirty pretty High School girls who reported to Director Garner Dalton and donning the Red Cross uniforms got to work on the streets soliciting new members. They will help again to-day. The campaign so far has resulted in more than 1,000 memberships, not including Crofton, Lafayette and Graycey. Nor does it include Pembeoke, which has a chapter of its own.

Yesterday Mr. Dalton received a belated package containing 8 booths that were intended for use in the campaign, but they will not now be used.

Miss Emily Braden who is teaching Ward-Belmont, Nashville, is here to spend the holidays with her agents.

Miss Ethel Wallace, who is attending school at Nashville, arrived yesterday to spend Christmas at home.

KAISER TALKS PEACE AGAIN

Russians Are Asked to Sound Out Feeling On the Question.

TERMS ARE OUTLINED

Wants to Quit Fighting Before He is Whipped to a Frazzle.

Washington, Dec. 21.—What purports to be an outline of the Kaiser's much advertised "Christmas peace terms" has reached here through the same neutral diplomatic channels which earlier in the week received information to support intimations from abroad that a new peace offer was coming.

In the main, the terms as described follow the lines of those said to have been written by Foreign Minister von Kuehlmann last summer. At that time they were denounced as having been written purely for political purposes.

The so-called terms, which must be appraised at their face value, are said to include the following:

To leave the disposition of Alsace-Lorraine to a plebiscite of inhabitants. England to pay Germany for her lost African colonies and the money to be used for the rehabilitation of Belgium, Serbia, Rumania and northern France.

Russian provinces bordering the Baltic, the Black sea and Prussia to become independent under a German plan.

Poland to become an independent state under Austrian suzerainty.

Disarmament, freedom of the seas and commerce to be left to the peace conference.

Romania, Serbia and Montenegro to retain their original boundaries, with the right of access to the sea being granted to Serbia.

Turkey to remain intact.

Whether such a proposal of terms is merely another step in the German propaganda to impress the public mind that the allies are responsible for a continuance of the war, or whether it really is a feeler for peace, is a subject for the estimate of the governments concerned.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR CHRISTMAS

All of the Pupils are Now "At Large" For a Happy Ten Days' Time.

The city schools closed yesterday until Dec. 31. At the High School there were some interesting closing exercises and at the grammar school the usual programs were carried out. The county schools in many districts have not resumed since they were "snowed under" two weeks ago and there will be no attempt to reopen until after Christmas.

Bethel Woman's College closed for the holidays with a recital and reception at the college Friday evening, which was largely attended by the music loving public, and especially by the young people.

At the West Side School the closing exercises partook of the nature of a Christmas entertainment in the chapel, in which pupils from the three lower grades took part.

Forty to Fifty Reported Injured--Special Relief Party Is Rushed to the Scene at Once.

Shepherdsville, Ky., Dec. 21—Sixty-seven known dead and forty to fifty persons injured, some of them seriously, was the toll taken when Louisville & Nashville passenger train No. 7, Cincinnati to New Orleans, early last night crashed into the rear of a Bardstown, Louisville and Springfield accommodation train 500 yards south of the station here.

In the main, the terms as described follow the lines of those said to have been written by Foreign Minister von Kuehlmann last summer. At that time they were denounced as having been written purely for political purposes.

Louisville & Nashville passenger train No. 7, left Cincinnati at 11:15 o'clock a. m. The train as made up in Cincinnati consisted of a mail, baggage and express cars, three coaches and a sleeper and parlor cars.

Virtually every person aboard the accommodation train, both crew and passengers, was either killed or badly injured. None of the passengers aboard the fast train were killed, though a number were injured. The locomotive was demolished and the heavy steel coaches making up the train were thrown from the track.

Mr. T. J. Baynham, of Edgerton, was the host at a chitterling luncheon given at the Dixie Cafe Thursday at noon. Those present were W. T. Tandy, J. M. Nebblet, Judge Walter Knight, Capt. S. A. Cherry, James O. Cook, W. S. Harned, T. E. Bartley and John T. Hill.

CROZIER'S NAME NOT CONFIRMED

Rep. McCormick Contradicts Testimony of Gen. Crozier about Preparedness.

INQUIRY WORK BROADENS

Congressman Declares British and French Supply U. S. Troops at Sacrifice.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The congressional inquiry into army war preparations broadened with the Senate military committee's decision to hear private manufacturers of ordinance and ammunition and to delve into the clothing, cantonment buildings, food and transportation situation Friday by examining Major-General.

From Representative McCormick of Illinois, who recently visited the European battle front, the committee heard statements in executive session tending to contradict testimony of Major-General Crozier, chief of ordnance, regarding adequacy of General Pershing's equipment, especially heavy artillery. Mr. McCormick said neither the British nor the French had enough artillery and that they were supplying Pershing only because the Americans were still worse off.

As a result of the charges of delays and shortages in the ordnance outfitting, the Senate, before adjourning for the holidays, indefinitely postponed action on the nomination of General Crozier for reappointment.

PAUL TWYMAN LYCEUM SINGER

Signs a Contract With the Ratcliffe Lyceum Bureau.

Paul E. Twyman, one of Hopkinsville's gifted vocalists, has signed a contract for forty weeks of lyceum work and will begin February 1, reporting at Washington, D. C. Mr. Twyman has a splendid baritone voice which has been well cultivated and he is now taking a special course of instruction looking to his lyceum work. His contract is with the Ratcliffe bureau and he will be with the Elaine Duncan trio, which recently appeared at Lafayette.

Mr. Twyman is a son of Mr. John W. Twyman and has recently been in business at Lafayette.

COL. HART AS SANTA CLAUS

Will As Usual Distribute Christmas Baskets For the Elks.

The Elks will as usual distribute Christmas baskets to the poor, under the guidance of the regular Santa Claus, Col. Ike Hart. There will be a change this year from the plan of carrying the baskets around. Cards will be sent out to those selected to receive them and each recipient will be expected to call or send for the basket at the Elks Home. This plan will save $15 expense and make several more baskets possible. Another difficulty will be that small sacks of flour are no longer sold and flour will have to be bought and sacked or bread substituted.

Edward Andrews, florist Western State Hospital, has resigned to go to France as a Red Cross nurse, with an Ohio unit. He will go to Chillicothe for a month's training and will leave for Boston Jan. 28, to remain until he sails.

REAL PEACE TERMS ARE OUTLINED

Great Britain's Demands Are Officially Made Known Before Germany Asks For Them.

REVOLUTION SPREADS.

Two Enemy Submarines Are Sunk By French Torpedo Boats.

In the midst of the peace pourparlers that are in progress between the representatives of the Teutonic allies and the Bolshevik government in Russia, the war aims of Great Britain—and doubtless of all her allies—have been concretely set forth in the house of commons by David Lloyd-George, the British prime minister. The complete restoration of territory now in the hands of the enemy and compensation for the havoc they have wrought is the price that will be demanded for the laying down of arms and the bringing about of peace.

Great Britain did not seek territorial aggrandizement for herself or for any of her allies when she entered the war, Mr. Lloyd-George said, but entered into the hostilities merely for the sake of our honor. As to Germany's colonies, all of which are in the hands of the entente, Mr. Lloyd-George said, their disposition must be determined at the peace congress. Jerusalem, however, the premier declared, would never be restored to the Turks.

The statement of the prime minister came almost simultaneously with the report that the Teutonic allies intended to make peace proposals to the entente and that Russia had been requested to take similar steps, and was endeavoring to sound her former allies in arms as to their requirements for a cessation of hostilities. Meanwhile the civil warfare in Russia apparently is increasing in intensity. Cossacks under General Dutov are reported to have captured Tchelbinsk, the junction point on the Trans-Siberian railway, 125 miles west of the Siberian frontier, through which supplies from the east from European Russia must pass and fighting continues in Odessa, in the Ukraine and around Astrakhan, but with the result uncertain owing to conflicting reports.

The Bolshevik government is reported to have demanded that the chief governing body in the Ukraine make known immediately whether the Ukrainian troops will cease assisting General Kaledine's cossacks and disarming Bolshevik troops. If the reply of the Ukrainians is not a favorable one, it is announced that the Bolshevik government will declare war on them.

An unofficial report is to the effect that Grand Duke Nicholas, the former Russian general, whose masterful retreat from the Carpathians and later successful operations against the Turks in the Caucasus region stamped him as one of the great commanders of the war, has formed a great army of royalists in the Caucasus region.

Hard fighting continues between the Brenta and Piave rivers in northern Italy, but apparently the Italians have been holding their own since the enemy's thrust on Tuesday resulted in the capture of positions around Monte Asolone. The Italians, according to the Berlin official communication, have delivered fierce counter attacks against the sectors in this region in the hands of the Germans, but have been repulsed, while the Rome war office says that several attempts by the enemy to advance their lines on the Tassan-Col Del Orso front and to cross the Piave river northeast of Venice were frustrated.

Joseph T. and Emmet O'Neal, former Louisville attorneys, are now privates in the ranks "over there." Their Y. M. C. A. work has been organized and they have entered active service. As Emmet wrote to his family here last August, "We could both obtain commissions, doubtless, but we prefer to earn them rather than have them given us." The brothers are in Headquarters Company, 5th Field Artillery, which is with the American expeditionary forces.

Ten persons were killed and seventy injured in London during Wednesday night's air raid. Outside of London five person were injured.
One of the German airplanes which took part in the raid was brought down and another is believed to have been destroyed, the war office announces. From sixteen to twenty raiders, divided into six groups, endeavored to reach London, but only five succeeded in dropping bombs on the city. There is reason to believe another raider dropped into the English Channel, says the report.

All Christmas furlough plans at Camp Zachary Taylor were knocked into a cocked hat Wednesday by an order from the War Department at Washington limiting the number of furloughs to 5 per cent. of the total number of soldiers at the cantonment.
Brig. Gen. Wilder immediately issued an order to stop the granting of furloughs, as more than 5 per cent. of the soldiers had already been permitted to depart on leave. It had been decided to permit up to 5,000 men to leave the camp at Christmas and New Year's, half of this number to be given in leave at Christmas time and the other half at New Year's.

Hunger Threatens Germany.

The Berlin Tageblatt, severely criticising the war provision office, says:

"City dwellers await the coming winter with anxious concern and serious fear. The foodstuff prospects are more unfavorable than at any time during the war. To the high cost of necessaries, which already has become a terrible burden to the masses, is added the danger that not even the most absolutely necessary foodstuffs can be considered as being assured."

Chance For Veterans.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Old soldiers past the age when they are acceptable for line service, men who have at any time served honorably in the army, even those whose last service was during the Spanish war, will be accepted as recruits for the United States guard now being organized to relieve fighting troops on home duty.

Recruiting officers already are enlisting men. Old soldiers even up to 60 years will be accepted if they are physically fit for the work. Men of this type should understand that they are sought by the government. Here-fore no men over 40 years old have been accepted at any recruiting office.

No Electric Fans in Aden.

Electric current for fans is not generally available in Aden, Arabia, and the old fashioned punkah system is the only relief from the almost unbearable heat and closeness of the atmosphere which prevails at certain seasons of the year, according to the Scientific American. A punkah is a large ceiling fan operated by a coolie who pulls a rope attached to it. This rope generally passes over a small pulley through a hole in the wall, so that the coolie may work unseen by those in the room to be ventilated.

HOPKINSVILLE
SETS THE PACE*By All Standards Best Town
of Its Class Anywhere
in this Section.

An agent of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, who was here this week, said that judged by his method of gauging the importance of a city, Hopkinsville is the best city in Western Kentucky. "We count," he said, "the business importance of a town by the number of its adding machines. Hopkinsville has 75 of our machines, while Henderson, a somewhat larger town, has less than 50. Hopkinsville gives every indication of being a busier town and a better town in every way than Henderson or any other third class city in this part of the country."

Armenian Relief Fund.

The churches, Sunday Schools are all busy this week planning for the Relief Fund for Armenian sufferers next Sunday. The city schools are also imbued with the same noble spirit.
Some churches and Sunday Schools have already presented the appeal.
The public schools of the city will present the appeal and take the offering this week before they adjourn for the holidays. The amounts will be published later, and Mr. Ed L.
Weathers, at the First National Bank,
is the treasurer, and will receipt you, whether it is your individual offering or the offering of your school.

Now, if the county will line up with the city for this Christmas offering for the starving people of the near East, we shall have made a creditable showing for our city and country, and save a good many women and children from starving to death this winter.

The American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief have listed 23,000 cities, towns and villages in America and apportioned the amount to keep these 2,500,000 distressed and hungry peoples from starving to death this winter, and they have apportioned to our city and county $3,125. If these 23,000 villages, cities and towns raise all they are apportioned and asked to give they will then be the better able to spend only 10 cents per day for food for each one of these sufferers! And there is no city or county in the United States better able to give the amount asked than we are, and the appeal will not come to any people of the country more responsive to such an appeal than ours.

But in order to raise the amount we shall have to consider more intelligently the overwhelming numbers in abject and distressing want and suffering. Remember, that 2,500,000 is a conservative estimate of the number. More recent estimates put the number at 3,000,000. And think of it—it requires $5.00 per head per month to feed them. And five times two and one half million, or 3 million, amounts to a big sum for charity.
But we have the means God has given to us and enough to spare.

If 100 persons will give $10.00 a piece, and 200 $5.00 each and one thousand $1.00 each, we shall more than raise the amount asked our prosperous city and county. You can make these offerings through your church, Sunday school, or hand it to Mr. Weathers.

We have not yet heard from the country, but we are counting on you.
The farmers have had a year of unprecedented prosperity, and "when much is given, much is required."
Your responsibility is very great in the presence of this nation-wide hunger and distress, and the law is,
"Whatever you mete shall be measured to you again." Come, then, people of the country, and of the city,
and let us help to feed these starving
women and children.

LEWIS POWELL.

A Mother's boast.
American mothers, sending their own "over there," should recall the pride boast of Volumnia, a Roman matron, who said of her son:
"To a cruel war I sent him, from whence he returned his brow bound with oak. I tell thee, daughter, I sprang not more easily at first hearing that he was a man-child than now at first hearing that he has proved himself a man."

A NERVOUS WRECK

From Three Years' Suffering. Says
Cardui Made Her Well.

Texas City, Tex.—In an interesting statement, Mrs. G. H. Schill, of this town, says: "For three years I suffered untold agony with my head. I was unable to do any of my work.

I just wanted to sleep all the time, for that was the only ease I could get, when I was asleep. I became a nervous wreck just from the awful suffering with my head.

I was so nervous that the least noise would make me jump out of my bed. I had no energy, and was unable to do anything. My son, a young boy, had to do all my household duties.

I was not able to do anything until I took Cardui. I took three bottles in all,
and it surely cured me of those awful headaches. That has been three years ago, and I know the cure is permanent, for I have never had any headache since taking Cardui. .

Nothing relieved me until I took Cardui.
It did wonders for me."

MODERN BATHS FOR SOLDIERS

Warriors of Leading Armies Enjoy
Hot and Cold Water, Showers and Individual Tubs.

So perfect are the sanitary arrangements of the leading armies engaged in the European conflict that it may be stated without exaggeration that a soldier at the front can take his bath under almost normal conditions, writes a war correspondent.

For instance, he has an individual regulation bathtub at his disposal, and all the hot and cold water necessary. And in many cases there is a shower bath at hand for those who wish to use it.

The traveling bath caravan recently donated to the Belgian army by the wounded allies' committee consists of a truck which carries a dozen or more bathtubs and a water-heating plant, as well as a roll-up tent.
In actual service the bathtubs are taken off the truck and placed on the ground, under the shelter of the tent. Hot and cold water may be brought to the tubs by means of flexible hose, while the bathtub can be drained in the same manner through a short length of hose which carries the waste water outside of the tent inclosure.

HUNGER CAUSES NEW DISEASE

Manifests Itself by Swelling of Feet and Legs—Bed and Hospital Diet Found Necessary.

One of the results of the restricted diet now enforced in Germany is a new disease due to malnutrition. This, which is called an "oedema disease," and is now very prevalent, is discussed in the Deutsche Medizinische Wochenschrift by four physicians who have been studying it, two in the general hospital of Hamburg-Barmbeck, one among industrial workers in West Prussia and one in the prison camps.

This disease manifests itself by swelling of the feet and legs, sometimes of the hands, and often of the face. The blood is found to be watery. Rest in bed on ordinary hospital diet is followed by recovery, but this is very slow.

JAPAN PAPER UNSURPASSED.

Japanase native-made paper is not surpassed anywhere in this world; it is used for the finest books, says the East and West News. The paper cloth of Atami, from which durable clothing is made, indicates not only the strength but the variety of uses to which the native paper of Japan can be put. All grades of news, magazine and book papers have advanced in Japan. The far East explains that the rise is due to the inability of the mills to supply both domestic demand and a rapidly growing export market. None of the Atami paper cloth is sent out of the country owing to the large home consumption. No attempt has been made, except in China, to develop this purely peasant household industry out of the narrow rut in which it exists and to place it upon modern industrial basis.

Art Collector Comes Home To Recuperate After Oriental Experience.

(New York Sun.)

Adolphe Grosjean, a Frenchman, who has been 22 years in China, collecting Oriental art goods for a Fifth avenue shop, returned to New York and announced that he would stay here a while and recuperate. He had witnessed, he said, the beheading of 25 Chinese in the streets of a little town in the province of Shansi and the sight determined him to leave the country and come to America. He said he was "caught in the vortex of a revolution, the cause of which he did not know."

"I had gone to this little town," he said, "to buy several old ceramics that had recently been excavated. A day or so after I arrived I noticed the streets were deserted and stores and dwellings barred. Something was expected to happen, but I couldn't learn what it was. Suddenly I heard noises down a street, and approaching I saw ten soldiers guarding sixty prisoners walking with their hands bound behind them. At every 25 paces the procession would stop and one of the prisoners was made to kneel. Then a soldier would swing a sword upon him and cut off his head. Sometimes they would have to hack two or three times to perform the decapitation. The body toppled over, the procession moved forward another 25 paces and the performance was repeated.

"There was no confusion or excitement. The prisoners, bandits or revolutionists, I do not know which, took the whole thing as a matter of course. I decided to flee, leaving my purchases and baggage behind."

American Books in Russia.
The single American book most widely read in Russia is "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Some of Irving's works were translated for the Muscovite public, and the Russian boys have been thrilled by the doings of Leatherstocking and Uncas. Mark Twain is quite popular beyond the Niemen and the Beresina. All in all, it seems that Russians know more American books than Americans know Russian books.

Ben Franklin's audience was the world, so it does not surprise one to learn from a Russian critic that the first American book translated into Russian was the product of Poor Richard's pen. That was 13 years after he died.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

"Let there be no misunderstanding. Our present and immediate task is to win the war, and nothing shall turn us aside from it until it is accomplished. Every power and resource we possess, whether of men, of money, or of material, is being devoted and will continue to be devoted to that purpose until it is achieved."

"We shall regard the war as won only when the German people say to us, through properly accredited representatives, that they are ready to agree to a settlement based upon justice and the reparation of the wrongs their rulers have done."

"When this intolerable thing, this German power, is, indeed, defeated and the time come that we can discuss peace—when the German people have spoken whose words we can believe and when those spokesmen are ready in the name of their people to accept the common judgment of the nations as to what shall henceforth be the bases of law and of covenant for the life of the world—we shall be willing and glad to pay the full price for peace and pay it ungrudgingly. We know what that price will be. It will be full, impartial justice—justice done at every point and to every nation that the final settlement must affect, our enemies as well as our friends."

The Interned Germans.

Some purchasers of Liberty Loan bonds, who have read exaggerated reports of the treatment accorded by United States authorities to the German civilians interned in this country, have written to the Treasury Department protesting against the use of any of the money raised by the Liberty Loans in "pampering" these alien enemies.

These interned German civilians are not prisoners of war and are not under the jurisdiction of the War Department or the Treasury Department, but by the provisions of our immigration laws are placed under the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor and comprise officers and crews of the German merchant vessels seized by the United States, and other German civilians. Their deportation, which ordinarily would take place, is impracticable, in view of the international situation.

These aliens receive no compensation from the government except such as is allowed them for work actually performed, and the wages paid them are not exorbitant at all. In fact, if, from their labor and other sources they receive more than a moderate amount of money a month, all in excess of a reasonable amount for their care and comfort is withheld from them and placed to their credit in the postal savings banks or some other safe disposal of it.

The Department of Labor also officially states that these aliens are not allowed an excessive amount of food, but three meals a day of plain but thoroughly palatable, substantial food are given each. There is no waste in these detention camps and the same measures of economy and conservation are being practiced which are being urged upon every American household.

"Potter's Field."

"Potter's field," the graveyard in which are buried those who are interred at public expense, comes by its name legitimately. In England and the continent the clay used to make pottery was dug up in long trenches, which were left unfilled. Common consent soon made it possible for these unsightly stretches of ground to be put to the useful purpose of interring the bodies of those who were cared for as a charge upon the country.

HE WAS TAKING NO CHANCES

Careful Buyer Was Suspicious of Bargain Offered Him by Exasperated Real Estate Dealer.

The real estate agent was driving round town with a prospective buyer and trying to interest him in a certain piece of land. The agent had shown the same man several pieces of property for sale below current prices, and was beginning to think that he would never buy, no matter how tempting the offer might be.

Finally, the agent, exasperated at his client's faultfinding, said to him, "Well, Mr. Bickering, you don't want to buy anything. I don't expect to sell you anything, no matter how good it is or how low the price."

"I'll buy something good. You show me a real bargain, and you can sell it to me," replied Bickering.

"I have already shown you half a dozen good bargains, and I don't believe you would buy a dead-sure cinch for a big immediate profit. I'll prove it to you right now. Here, I'll sell you this silver dollar for 90 cents."

Bickering took the dollar, examined it on both sides, "hefted" it in his hand, and asked: "Is it a good dollar?"

"Of course it is a good dollar," replied the agent. "It's not even scratched, as you can see."

"Well, I hardly think I want it," answered Bickering.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," interrupted the agent. "I'll sell you that dollar for 75 cents. There is a 33 1/3 per cent profit in it for you at once."

Bickering examined the dollar again very closely, sounding it and "hefting" it repeatedly, asked several more questions, and finally handed it back to the agent, saying:

"Well, you can keep this and give me the 25 cents."

ELECTRIC FAN FOR DRYING.

From a warm weather instrument primarily the electric fan appears to be applicable to the problem of the hour—the conservation of our food. The United States department of agriculture has suggested the use of the conventional electric fan for drying vegetables. In a bulletin on the subject it states that tests have proved that many sliced vegetables and fruits placed in long trays three feet by one foot and stacked in two tiers end to end before an electric fan can be dried to the requisite dryness within twenty-four hours. Some vegetables require even less time.

THAT'S DIFFERENT.

JP STALE BREAD NUISANCE

ovation Promises to Revolutionize Inkery Business and to Aid in Complying With Conservation.

all the regulations which may be established to govern food production and conservation can be measured by the request of the council of national defense that the bakers at once put a stop to their ancient custom of accepting returns of stale bread, it is clear that the food business is going to have a thoroughly salutary house cleaning, says Northwestern Miller.

The prevention of waste is, in the long run, directly beneficial to the producer, and the government is evidently going to help him to do what he had long wanted but been unable to do. The stale bread nuisance has for years been one of the chief plagues of the bakery trade. Everybody recognized it for what it was: a wholesale waste of good material doing nobody any good, maintained only because each baker was afraid of his competitors. The retailer who wanted a dozen loaves was induced to take two dozen on the ground that he could return the unsold ones; the baker paid the extra cost, knowing that if he revoked the obnoxious privilege some other baker would use it as a means for getting the retailer's trade for himself.

The return of unsold bread was long a favorite theme at bakers' conventions; its evils were published abroad and the trade was urged to "do something about it." But the lurking competitor around the corner kept that something from being done, and the baker kept on supplying the retailer with bread he did not want and gazing day by day at the surplus and practically unsalable production which was deposited on his hands.

INDIAN SUMMER.

The short season of fine weather usually occurring about the middle of November, or a little later, is called "Indian summer" from the custom of the Indians to avail themselves of this pleasant season for gathering their corn, and the tradition is that they always had a "second summer" of nine days just before winter set in. The sky at this period is generally filled with a golden haze. The season is synonymous with the "Summer of St. Martin" of Europe, which derives its name from the festival of St. Martin held on the 11th of November. "Squaw winter" is the Indian appellation for the touch of wintry or snowy weather that precedes the Indian summer.

KILAUEA VOLCANO ACTIVE.

"Kilauea volcano, one of the great natural wonders of the world, lately became active, and the molten lava, surging upward from the depths, is now close to the brink, affording a spectacle of awe-inspiring grandeur," John M. Ross of Hakau, Hawaii, said, according to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. "The vast flood of boiling lava regularly rises and falls, continually spouting fountains of flame, flowing in swift currents, eddying and boiling like the sea, or breaking and tumbling like surf in a tempest," Mr. Ross continued. "A strong sulphur odor permeates the air, and the glow of the volcano transforms the night sky into a fire-spangled mirror of incandescent beauty."

MOTHER ONCE WAS AFRAID TO GO TO BED

Spasmodic Croup Often Kept
Mrs. Shepard Awake
All Night.

LITTLE MISS
KATHRYN E. SHEPARD
DANVILLE, PENNA.

No one but a mother knows the terrors of croup. In the hope that other mothers will find the same relief she experienced, Mrs. Benj. Shepard, 27 Spruce St., Danville, Pa., writes—

"I have used your Vick's Vapo-Rub Salve, and would not be without it in my house. I have tried it for spasmodic croup, and it acted like a charm. My little girl breathed easier in about ten minutes after I rubbed her throat and chest with Vapo-Rub, and she went to sleep and never woke until morning. Other times I used to have to sit up all night with her, afraid to go to bed. So I will gladly recommend it to any mothers for croup."

You just apply Vick's Vapo-Rub Salve over throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath, loosening the phlegm. A real "Bodyguard in the home" against all cold troubles. Three sizes, 25c, and up. At all druggists.

How to Cut a Bottle.

A simple method of accurately cutting a bottle is to place it upon some level foundation and fill it with linseed oil to the point at which you desire the line of separation to occur. Then take an iron rod of as great a diameter as will pass into the bottle, make it almost white hot, and dip it into the oil. After the lapse of a few moments a sharp crack is heard, and the bottle is found to be neatly cut as if with a diamond. If the bottle be very thick and the crackling sound not heard in a few moments, a little cold water thrown on the outside will accomplish it.

PROFIT IN WOODLOTS

Big Increase in Income Can Be

(By F. G. MILLER, Dean, Idaho School

The United States census schedules of 1910 called for the value in detail of woodlot products sold from or used on farms in 1909. This schedule included firewood, fencing materials, logs, railroad ties, telegraph and telephone poles, materials, for barrels, bark, stove wood, or other forest products.

With proper handling the income from the farm woodlot can be tremendously increased, and no other class of forest land lends itself quite so readily to forest management as

HIDDEN BUNGALOW

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)
At the cross-roads Celia paused, trying to peer through the snowy blur, to the village below. The storm had been unexpected, she had started out in sunshine, hoping to visit a friend at the top of the hill, and now, before her journey's end, the sky darkened, while whirling ice flakes cut her cheeks. The tiny farmhouse, she remembered, was now as impossible to reach as the village; then came a recollection of a summer-home bungalow, which must be some place nearby. Though its occupants had returned to the city, she would be able to find shelter in the protected corners of the veranda. So Celia pulled the scarlet tam over her crinkling hair and pushed on through the whistling wind. Yes, there was the house buried in an enveloping cloud of snow and something moved at its gateway.

Celia laughed relievedly to find the something a great dog. Boisterous in welcome he darted toward her. Unhesitatingly her hand reached for the dog's collar and she led him yielding through the hedge. She was glad as she huddled in the doorway that the animal was there to shield her. Then with a lurch the great dog jumped against the door.

"You foolish thing," Celia chided, "It won't open"—but it did. Bewildered, the girl suddenly stood in a living room, and more amazing still, a fire crackled on the hearth.

"What is it Don?" a man's surprised voice asked of the dog, and from out the shadows appeared a man's figure.

"I beg your pardon," stammered the girl, "I did not know the bungalow was occupied. I was lost in the storm."

The man's voice was pleasing. "Will you make yourself comfortable here by the fire?" he invited.

Celia hesitated but a moment, glancing at the increasing storm—refusal seemed foolish.

"The bungalow was unoccupied," the man told her, "until last evening. I came out here upon an impulse."

Celia cast a glance at the man's fine features. Then, at his suggestion, she placed the red tam and her cloak before the fire. As darkness grew, he arose to light a shaded lamp. "You see," he remarked, "I have made preparation for days of solitude."

"That was a strange impulse of yours," she said as silence grew between them—"coming out here at this time of the year. I remember your face. You used to pass our home last summer in a car, with an older gentleman."

The man nodded. "My father," he answered briefly.

As departure grew hopeless, the man brought forth an impromptu meal, serving the girl as impersonally as though supper in a bachelor's snowed-in bungalow was an ordinary occurrence. And Celia encounred before the fire, found the hour one of pleasant adventure. Surreptitiously she watched the man's face, with eyes so keenly grave, and the eyes lost their anxious light when they rested on the girl's sweet face. At last he came back from an examination of the weather.

"You may have to stay here for some time," he said. "I am going to venture out to try to find a conveyance for you."

With reluctance she followed him to the door. "Oh, please!" she begged, as an icy blast caught her breath, "don't try it yet," but with a strong quick hand clasp, the man had gone.

Celia, left alone, reached for the morning paper lying before the couch, then for an instant, her heart seemed to stop beating, when it raced on again, she found herself looking into the pictured face of the man who had befriended her. Beneath the picture were the words:

"Defaulter, supposed to be in hiding." Below was an account of a shortage in one of the city banks, for which the pictured man was held responsible. "John Gordon the elder," the paper stated, "assistant to his son, the cashier, left immediately for a trip to California after John Gordon, Jr.'s mysterious disappearance. He refused to discuss the matter."

"Oh! It cannot be," whispered Celia; beneath the creases of the couch a paper cracked. Unconsciously she drew it forth, then deliberately read its message: "Dear Dick," said the note, "sorry to leave you to straighten things out, but I had to have money; deal went wrong. Now you'll fix things some way, boy."

With pink tears on either cheek, the girl jumped to face two men, who unannounced entered the room.

"Here's the boy," said one. "Where's Jack Gordon?"

"Pretty criminal," laughed the other, "hiding away in his own summer home."

"He is not a criminal," the girl cried hotly. "He's just a brave man, taking blame on himself to shield an old father; read that, you detectives."

Silently the men read the scribbled note, then turned to smile at the girl. "I'm glad you told us that evidence," said one, "but we don't happen to be detectives, we are just friends of Jack Gordon, here to tell him that his father has confessed."

Then from the doorway came Jack Gordon himself, and while he smiled at the men, his hands clasped those of the girl. "In the shadow of my disgrace," he murmured, "I may still be grateful for confidence."

Celia's eyes were aglow with pride. "Your father's disgrace can never

HOME GUARD IS PLANNED

Adj. Gen. Ellis Says Military Unit Will Be Formed In 1918.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 19.—Adj. Gen. Tandy Ellis said that a Kentucky home guard to protect the State against any outbreak of outlawry would be formed at the beginning of 1918. The Kentucky Home Guard would be separate from the United States Guards, which the Government recently announced would be formed, but its organization will follow the same lines. Men above and below draft ages will be officered by Spanish War veterans and officers declared ineligible for foreign service. Formation awaits passing of a law by the Legislature to supplement the old National Guard law.

"Looked Like Ten Cents."

The last joke of the season is on one of our Main street professionals who was so well pleased with his originality that he gave it away to one of his patrons. He was saving all the dimes that came his way for a Christmas Gift for his wife. It happens that his patron is a "female of the species," and it also happens that said patron did not shower him with congratulations over his plan, but on the contrary put on her thinking cap and thought along these lines. "Saving dimes for his wife." Is not that like a man? Why could he not save dollars for her? Oh no! he could not do that, he is too much of a man (?) All right Mister Man, I will fix you. And with this she made for the bank, "Guy, give me $20 worth of dimes, nice, new bright dimes," in her heart she wished she could make it $200 in dimes. Thus armed she made for her "man." "What is my bill, doctor? All right, receipt it, there is your money." She got her receipt and proceeded to give him dimes. She had dimes in her hand bag and began to count, saying it would be so nice for his wife's Christmas Gift.

Well, he did not die, but when he came to himself he found two trained nurses fanning him.

Hereafter he will beware of the "female of the species."

The January Woman's Home Companion

The new Year's number of the Woman's Home Companion is filled with many interesting and stimulating articles and stories. Margaret DeLand, the well known author, has written an article about the "Three S's," which she says are Sacrifice, Substitute, and Save. "Soldier's All," the Patriotic Department being conducted by Mrs. Richardson, tells many interesting things and gives many helpful ideas. The number is especially rich in fiction, "The Golden Block" by Sophie Cerr, finishing in this number. In addition there are stories by Elizabeth Jordon, Ruth Sawyer and other well known authors.

Grace Margaret Gould's Bulletin

Was Too Particular.
A Boonton (N. J.) real estate man was trying to sell a small farm by mail to a possible purchaser in Manhattan, a very precise and particular person. One day a friend asked him how he was making out on the deal. "Oh, I've quit," he said in a tone of marked pleasure. "You see, he wrote for so many details and kept insisting on having more, that I got tired at last and wrote, telling him if he would pay the freight both ways I would ship the darn farm down to the city to look at, and he never answered my letter."—Puck.

What One Needs.

'Tis a good old world to live in, so you need yourself a house; to love in, so you need a spouse; to go in, so you need a car or horse; to know in, so you need a college course; to read in, so you need some books; to shine in, so you need good clothes and looks.—Exchange.

Altitude Records.

Lieutenant Brachpapa, of the Italian army, and pilot recently attained a height of 7,025 meters (23,048 feet) in an Italian aeroplane, mounting to this altitude in 65 minutes. This is one of the world's height records.

On July 14, 1914, a German pilot named Oelrich attained a height of 25,756 feet, the record, however, not being passed upon by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris, owing to the outbreak of the European war shortly afterwards. H. G. Hawker, an English flier, reached a height of 23,622 feet on April 26, 1916, at Hendon, England.

FOLLOWING THE FLAG.

Mrs. Frank D. Adams, wife of Lieut. Frank D. Adams, of Urbana, O., has assumed the duties of the pastor of the Universalist church here to fill the vacancy caused when her husband left to begin his duties at Camp Grant, Rockford. Lieut. Adams gave up his pulpit to enter the second training camp at Fort Sheridan. He was commissioned not as a chaplain, but as a fighting man and is not expected to take up his ministerial work again until after the war.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK
EDITION OF THE
NEW YORK WORLD

IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the price of a Weekly. No other newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. We have been forced to enter the great world war, and a large army of ours is already in France. You will want to have all the news from our troops on European battle-fields, and 1918 promises to be the most momentous year in the history of the universe.

No other newspaper at so small a price will furnish such prompt and accurate news of these world-shaking events. It is not necessary to say more.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the

HOPKINSVILLE KENTUCKIAN

(Tri-weekly)

together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of Lost His Sweetheart.

Harold, aged five, was visiting his aunt in the city, and the little girl next door was his sweetheart till one day when she came over with her little pink rompers on. Mortified, Harold said: "Why don't you go home and get a dress on; I don't want you to be a boy."

QUICK ACTION PROMISED.

He—I want you to help spend my salary.

She—Am I not doing that?

He—No, no; I mean for ever and ever.

She—It won't take me as long as that.

COMPARISON.

"Marriage is much like war."

"Trouble most of the time, I presume."

"No. It either makes or breaks a man."

LOOKING FORWARD.

"Has your gardening been of advantage to you?"

"It has. I've learned a lot of things that ought to enable me to raise something next year."

THE SPIRIT OF THE OCCASION.

"I was at a little stag party last night."

"Yes, I know it. I saw you stagering home."

DIMENSIONAL LIMITATIONS.

"I think it would be a good idea if we take this piano downstairs."

"No doubt it's a good idea, but I'm afraid we can't carry it out."

PAST EXPERIENCE.

"Do you know my tailor has turned lawyer?"

"Then, I suppose he will make a specialty of breeches of promise."

HIS OPINION.

Bill—Can't an elephant go as long as a camel without water?

Gill—From the odor, I should say

20,000 Graduate Nurses Will Be Required In Army Hospitals.

With a continuance of the war, in the next year at least 20,000 nurses will be needed in Army hospitals at home and abroad. Of the 80,000 graduate nurses of the country only 3,500 have so far been assigned to duty in Army service and of this number 1,500 are in France.

An Army nurse must be a graduate of a training school for nurses and must have served for two years in a hospital. They are assigned to duty in the United States or abroad, and preferences are granted when conditions permit. Nurses who prefer not to have service abroad will have their preferences respected.

800,000
ARMENIANS

Killed Under Turks Since
War Started 1,200,000
Have Been Deported.

One-half, or 800,000 of the Armenian people who were under Turkish rule at the beginning of the war have been slaughtered or starved to death by the Turks, according to an indictment issued here by several influential Hollanders, among whom are A. F. De Savornin Lohman, the Dutch Minister of state, and Dr. Anton van Cyn, formerly Dutch minister of finance.

In all, they assert the Turks have deported 1,200,000 Armenian men, women and children, robbed them of all they possessed, massacred the men, carried off the women and girls to Turkish harems and Kurdish villages, sold the children in the slave market, and abandoned the remainder to slow death by starvation.

"This remnant of the Armenian people in Asia Minor," says the statement of these neutrals, "is a starving, beggar people, consisting in the main of old men, and women and children. The number of children, who separated from their relatives, lie along the caravan routes or wander about the towns like dogs, run in tens of thousands. It is scarcely credible that in the twentieth century the extermination of almost an entire people under such terrible circumstances was possible. But entirely trustworthy evidence of neutral consular officials of German and Swedish missionaries and teachers, is available, and puts the matter beyond all doubt."

GOOD ROADS.

How much would you pay for a farm located on a good road instead of one unimproved?

Figure the cost of production F. O. B. the market place and you will know something of the value of good roads.

There is no reason why any county should be behind in roads. Wake up.

You ask a doctor to cure your ills. When it comes to roads, why not ask the man that knows?

Figure out what good roads save you besides increasing the value of your farm.

Shelby, Graves and Fulton counties have recently appointed Civil Engineers to the position of County Road Engineer.

Several counties will shortly vote on the 20c road tax.

Why do boys leave the farm?

If you want good roads, follow the example of counties that have them. It is foolish to experiment in this enlightened age.

The State Road Department wants to help every county in the State. All taxpayers should consult the Department freely.

Why do men sell good farms, located on bad roads.

Where you see good roads, you will find good schools and churches and prosperous, contented people.

Where do you find the best roads?

What do you expect when you are told that a county has no roads?

What makes land valuable aside from fertility?

Basket Ball Last Night

The High School girls opened the basket ball season last night at the Belmont gym, a game with the Pembroke girls. The local team is coached by Miss Binkley, and it is said to be the best the High School has ever had. The Pembroke team is also a good one. The game was in progress when the Kentuckian went to press.
